MRS. JANE THOMPSON.

One of the brightest and best young ladies of the community departed from this life Monday afternoon. Edith Dye was the idol of her home, made friends wherever she went, and was esteemed by all. One of the best musicians in the community, she will be missed on account of her musical as well as social qualities. The heart-broken parents, brother and sisters have the sympathy of all in their great trial, which seems at times almost too heavy to be borne.

Edith Ellen Dye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Dye, was born at Howe, Neb., Jan. 19, 1871, died June 5, 1899, at 3.25 p. m., from pulmonary consumption.

After leaving school she studied music, preparing herself for a teacher, which profession she followed as long as her health would permit. Her health began to fail while in school at Stella but she was very persevering and still continued her work. A year ago she spent seven months in Broken Bow hoping to be benefited by the change. She seemed much improved for five or six months but then she took a severe cold from which she never recovered. While there she became converted, was baptized and united with the Baptist church last August.

Last November she went to San Diego, Cal., again hoping for a change for the better but instead she failed steadily. She returned home April 20. She improved for a time but soon relapsed and failed rapidly during the last week and died peacefully. She called her father to her and said not to cry for her; her troubles were all over now, and asked him to bid her friends good-bye.

The last tribute was paid her Tuesday at 3 p. m. The services were conducted by Rev. Diefenbach, of Auburn, in the church at Howe. The church was beautifully decorated and the casket covered with flowers. Many friends followed the remains to their last resting place. She will be greatly missed as she was dearly loved by all who knew her.

If you want to buy a hammock call at Keeling's drug store and inspect the nice ones they have.

The seventh annual commencement of the Nemaha high school was held at the opera house Friday night of last week. As usual on such occasions, the opera house was packed full, but good order was maintained. The class was the youngest ever graduated here, the average age at the beginning of the school year being only a fraction over fifteen years. It was the largest class ever graduating, there being ten members, and their standing was the best. Supt. Carman, after visiting the school a short time ago, pronounced it the best class in the county.

The members of the graduating class with the subjects of their orations, are as follows: May Kerker, salutatory. Nobility of Education; Willie Sanders, Honors Wait at Labor's Gate; Florence Burns, Life's Royal Highway; Stella Washburn, The Vale of Humility; Ambrose Howe, Garfield's Legacy to His Country; Cora Morton, Every Cloud has a Silver Lining; Louis Kerker, Life's Impending Crisis; Grace Paris, Future's Distant Hill-tops; Cyrus Minick, Destiny of Our Republic; Leta Seabury, valedictory, Sun-Burst on the Ocean. The orations were all delivered in a clear, distinct tone of voice, the graduates were self possessed and there was no hesitancy in the delivery. The orations showed originality and that they were the production of the graduates. As each one delivered their oration they were presented with a wealth of beautiful flowers, and when the exercises were finished the platform in front of the class was covered with beautiful bouquets and baskets of flowers and the room filled with fragrance.

The program in addition to the orations was as follows: Invocation, Rev. C. H. Gilmore; Music, "Come to the Forest," Misses Maud, Mellinger and Lillian Minick; male quartette, "Let Me Dream While Life Shall Linger," Messrs. Duff, Paris, Minick and Sanders; solo, "There is a Story of Sweet Memory," Miss Maud Minick; guitar solo, "Whisperings of Love," W. H. Linn; class address, Rev. Chas. H. Gilmore; subject, "Self Culture," delivery of diplomas by W. W. Keeling, president of the school board; duet, "Till We Meet Again," Misses Florence Minick and Maye Gather.
